Your Safety Signs
Will Be More Effective
When You Put Them on
This Surprising Surface!

You have a lot of safety signs. You take pride in staying up to code and taking your employees' safety seriously. But are your signs doing as much good as you think?

Just like you eventually stop noticing the sound of airplanes when you live close to the airport, people stop really seeing signs when they all look the same and have been in the same spots for years. It's time to add an element of surprise to your safety signs and make use of some largely untapped display space – your floors.

If you think that no businesses use floor signs for their safety signage, you would be wrong. However, floor signs are used much less frequently than standard wall signs, and that's precisely what makes them so useful.
